

EMPOWERING REPRESENTATION IN CHANGING TIMES

As we navigate through these changing times, it is crucial to stay informed and connected. Recent observations have shown a shift in how management communicates about meetings that directly impact our members. We've noticed a trend where managers are less likely to inform union representatives about meetings, including fact-finding investigations, talks, and other forms of meetings between members and their supervisors.

Together, we can ensure that every member is supported, informed, and empowered. If you are scheduled for any meeting with management or are part of any investigatory processes, please reach out to us.

Let's stay united and strong, advocating for our rights and supporting one another.
